I offer extensive Board and non-exec director experience within sport. I am fortunate that sport has been my career, and whilst I now focus as my main job on the elite end of sport (curling & wheelchair curling at world, Paralympic & Olympic level), my passion for cycling and sport spans the pathway from bike-ability to podium.

I am confident that I:

- Recognise, appreciate and maintain the critical difference between a non exec role and that of the executive staff team at Scottish Cycling
- Support the exec team, whilst also challenging where appropriate to ensure adhering statutory board member roles delivered
- Have a strong insight into the role, challenges and opportunities facing a Governing Body of sport (having been CEO / senior exec for a number)
- Represent the interests of the membership and the interests of cycling in Scotland when undertaking the role of British Cycling Board member (having been nominated by Scottish Cycling for that role)
- Commit the time necessary and use my insight and network across British & Scottish Sport to the benefit of Scottish Cycling

I am an active cyclist – still competing, commuting, training, and enjoying time on my bike. Both children compete on their bikes – from Paralympic Games to crit races in Linlithgow, and my supportive voice is yet to diminish in volume

I am eager to continue volunteering my time in support of Scottish Cycling for this last period of eligibility and believe that I offer skills, experience, connections and insight that support the staff and business effectively.

I believe that I impact positively for the sport in Scotland at SC Board & British level, and commit to continuing such work if re-elected.

Please provide a policy statement for the nominee (i.e. what would the nominee hope to achieve in their time as a Director).

As a director, there are certain key roles and functions that are prescribed and required by law. I understand that, and across all my board and professional roles, I ensure a focus on such matters. My passion as a Director for Scottish Cycling is however to help the organisation thrive and in doing so enable all levels of the sport in Scotland to achieve.

Cycling is a broad church – the breadth of different disciplines, performance, commuting, health, major events – give huge opportunities and also tough resource challenges. Clubs (and established groups) are critical to the future, but the sport has to recognise and embrace change. As the Scottish rep on the British Cycling Board, I am closely involved with programmes of change but seeking to preserve the traditions whilst also welcome greater opportunity, diversity, and make it easier for people to take up cycling and enjoy the “sport” aspect.

Scottish cycling “punches above its weight” in many ways (compared to the rest of the UK). That doesn’t mean we can’t do things better however, and as a director I’m committed to listening, and enabling the right conversations around strategy, prioritisation, resourcing.

I chair the Performance & Coaching Board Sub-Group and through that have a close dialogue regarding performance and supporting the staff team focus on the opportunities offered by Glasgow 2026. That is an opportunity for the sport across Scotland and whilst our athletes will inspire, we must capitalise on it for the benefit of clubs, events and our own strategic priorities.

I hope to continue this work and in doing so challenge and support the Exec team, my fellow directors, British Cycling and our partners / stakeholders to ensure cycling in Scotland remains prominent, successful, and offers opportunities to all in a safe, enjoyable manner.
